In 2019, France is hosted
FIFA Women's World Cup.

NICOLAS WILD (illustrator)

A former student of the famous Arts Décos illustration studio in Strasbourg, Nicolas Wild writes comic books. Author of the famous picture book series Kabul Disco, this tireless traveler continues his exploration of the Persian world in Iran with the picture book Silent was Zarathoustra, which earned him a selection at the Festival d'Angoulême and the France Info de la BD d'Actualité et de Reportage prize in 2014. In 2018, he participated in the multimedia series "Réfugiés" on Arte, in which he made comic strips about the people he met in a Nepalese refugee camp. His latest installment, Kabul Requiem, was published in November

JENNIFER VORMS-LE MORVAN (author)

After working as a director for Arte and RFO (a network of radio and television stations), Jennifer opened up the bookstore "La soif de lire" in Strasbourg. The rich professional experiences and extensive travels of this jack of all trades brought her to Nepal where she met Sunakali and the Pakistani director who made a documentary about her. She also told the astonishing true story of this little Nepalese girl for the "Racines du Monde" collection published by Éditions Cécile.

.... elsewhere, girls are fighting to play!

In countries still dominated by the patriarchy, sports, and football in particular, are important factors in female emancipation. This is what Sunakali's story illustrates.

Il savait la fée dans sa guele et la fit basculer sur son dos.
« En avant ! » hurla le grand loup.
Il courut à travers bois, fendant l'air et les touffes. La fée au chaperon rouge s'accrochait au grand pelage noir. Rarement elle s'était sentie si rassurée. « Tout droit jusqu'au village ! » cria-t-elle dans un accès de bonheur.
Le grand loup freina des quatre fers. Le village ? Il était rempli d'humains qui voulaient sa peau ! Sa maman l'avait assez sermonné à ce propos. Peut-être s'était-il trompé : et si sa fée était une sorcière déguisée ?...
